DeLegge Medical Partners with e-Zassi to Fuel Product Development

FERNANDINA BEACH, Florida, July 21, 2011 – e-Zassi.com has announced that the DeLegge Medical Tech Accelerator is now using the InnoVision™ Software platform as part of their medical device design, education and consulting practice. The software is now accessible through the DeLegge Medical web site where innovators can securely submit their ideas for an initial review with DeLegge Medical Partners.

The Tech Accelerator is a key component of the DeLegge Medical Intellectual Property Acceleration Process, which has been developed to assist innovators with a step by step review of the developmental potential and costs needed to advance their technology through the commercialization process. For an idea that is in the concept stage, the DeLegge staff can assist with any/all of the following services including: market assessment, IP search and patent preparation, prototype development from rough to working, regulatory and reimbursement assessment, clinical studies, manufacturing set-up and others.

According to Dr. Mark DeLegge, President of DeLegge Medical and a Board Certified Gastroenterologist, “Integration of the e-Zassi InnoVision tool provides additional capabilities to our Tech Accelerator by allowing us to provide rapid and powerful business intelligence to our clients and their new medical technologies. The intelligence provided by the software is critical in this time of regulatory, reimbursement and patent reform and could help maximize product, patent and clinical designs while also offering protection against intellectual property over-disclosure, which is critical when communicating early stage technologies over the web.”

For additional information about the broad range of services provided by the Tech Accelerator, contact Elizabeth Rigstad, Business Development Manager, Elizabeth@DeLeggeMedical.com.
